CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1959, 190 students entered the great halls of Swain High as freshmen. We were accustomed to being looked up to as eighth-graders, but soon found that freshmen were the "Objects of endless ridicule"! After Mr. DeHart had pounded his words in our heads, with the aid of his famous ruler, we were finally revived in the spring by the Freshman-Eighth Grade party.

We took the routine schedule of our sophomore year in stride - Mr. Frizzell's biology projects and our sophomore party. During our traditional "spring fever," the one thing that kept us going was the thought of being an upperclassman the next school year.

At the beginning of our junior year, we quickly found ourselves in a turmoil of raising money for our annual Junior-Senior. We worked hard and broke all school records on our bake sales. We honored the Seniors with an "Hawaiian Paradise" banquet and dance. Both teachers and students agreed that there was more participation than ever before. After surviving Mr. Wright's history class, we took all honors in the annual Field Day events.

At last, we had reached the top, or so we thought. Topping last year's senior class in magazine sales, we started off with a bang! We continued throughout the year to raise money for our long-awaited Washington trip. Other highlights included our class rings and the Junior-Senior. As the year progressed toward graduation, we realized it was not the end, only a beginning.
